ASSASSINS IN CAIRO EMPLOY PISTOLS WHEN BOMBS FAIL

General Stack, Aide And Policeman Wounded

CONDITION GRAVE

Reward Of £10,000 Is Offered For Capture Of Assailants

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, Nov. 19.—Three or four of the assailants, who escaped when the bomb thrown at the Sirdar, Major-General Sir Lee Stack, did not explode, fired several rounds from revolvers hitting Sir Lee Stack, his aide-de-camp and chauffeur, and a policeman. The Sirdar was badly wounded in the stomach and was taken to hospital.

The Sirdar was going home when the assailants, who were secreted in the doorway of the Stores Department of the Ministry of Education, threw a bomb which hit the motorcar but did not explode and fell into the gutter. The assailants then followed the car firing continually.

The frightened occupants of a passing tramcar took shelter by lying down. One of the assailants crossed the road and reloaded his revolver from a magazine handed to him by a man standing on the pavement. A policeman who guarded him was hit three times and serious-

Bishop Brent Tells Of America's Sole Purpose

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Nov. 19.—The chief editor of the Journal de Geneve, who formerly held an important position in the Secretariat of the League of Nations, in an editorial article on the failure of the preliminary Opium Conference, alleges that no State desires to take any serious step and says that they are "making use of questions entirely foreign to the real problem. The Japanese have succeeded in wrecking the first Conference to the feigned indignation of all the States represented on it. The United States is the only Power which will be sincerely shocked, because it wants a settlement." By reserving the right to submit the matter to the second Conference, the United States, he continues, "has circumvented the Machiavellian calculations of those, India for example, who had hoped it would be easier to reach an agreement without the United States."

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Nov. 19.—The chief speaker at today's Opium Conference was Bishop Brent of the United States, who voiced America's singlemindedness in tackling the evil. He declared that they had advanced beyond the stage of pious aspirations and must prepare for action. Alluding to the situation in China Bishop Brent said that they must eliminate the economic difficulties and the rest would be easy. "Let the Conference not adjourn," he appealed, "until it has declared in a practical way that it is determined to pursue its ideal until it is realised."

JAPANESE GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE FOR ARMS DEAL

Pistols And Ammunition Are Seized By Police At Woosung Rd. House

Fumio Ajiro, a Japanese, was sentenced to twenty-five days' imprisonment in the Japanese Consular Court yesterday when he was arraigned on a charge of being in possession of arms illegally with intent to sell. Five pistols, 475 rounds of .32 caliber ammunition and three spare magazines, which were taken by the police when Ajiro was arrested, were ordered confiscated by the court.

Ajiro's arrest was effected by Detective Inspector J. Sullivan, of the C. I. D. Previously, plain clothes detectives working under Inspector Sullivan had visited Ajiro's home at 1421 Woosung Road and made arrangements for the purchase of pistols. At the time set for the completion of the deal, while the Chinese detectives were in conversation with Ajiro, Detective Inspector Sullivan entered the house. On a table were the five automatic pistols, ammunition and magazines.

Prohibition Law In U. S. Has Come To Stay, Says Speaker At Rotary Club

Dr. Herbert L. Willett, Professor Of History At The University Of Chicago, Discusses 'America's New Program' At Weekly Tiffin Meeting

Dr. Herbert L. Willett of the department of history of the University of Chicago was the principal speaker at the weekly tiffin meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club at the Astor House yesterday. Taking as his subject, "America's New Program," Dr. Willett referred briefly to the recent election in which President Coolidge was returned to office for a period of four years, and then spoke at considerable length on America's relations with the rest of the world. Dr. Willett, who apparently is on the side of those favoring America's entrance into the League of Nations, attributed the failure of the United States to join the League to the personal hatreds of former President Woodrow Wilson and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

Two great moral problems which are occupying America's attention at this time, in the opinion of Prof. Willett, are prohibition and the use of narcotics.

"Prohibition," declared the speaker, "was not forced suddenly upon the American people. It was a matter of slow growth and development and although there are still bootleggers and law-violators, prohibition has come to stay and the nation will never return to the use of alcoholic beverages."

The use of narcotics in the United States is on the increase, in Mr. Willett's opinion, especially among youths of both sexes and now constitutes another moral problem for the country to tackle. The use of narcotics in the opinion of the speaker is responsible for much of the crime now prevalent in the country.

The members of the Rotary Club voted at the meeting yesterday to postpone the meeting next week which falls on Thanksgiving Day to November 29 and to accept an invitation extended by Mr. J. H. Taggart, managing director of the Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels to hold the meeting at the new Majestic Hotel on Bubbling Well Road upon which occasion a tiffin dance will be given and members will be permitted to bring with them their wives and lady guests.

5 CHINESE GIVEN DEATH SENTENCE FOR ARMED THEFT

Mixed Court Hands Out Drastic Penalty To Members Of Gang

Five Chinese were sentenced to death by Mixed Court yesterday for being associated in armed robberies and attempted murder cases.

Cases of two other members of the band were remanded a week while one man was expelled from the Settlement.

The men will be sent to the Arsenal or the authorised Chinese officials for another hearing but if the Chinese hearing develops that the men do not warrant the death penalty the men are to be returned to the Mixed Court.

The members of the gang include Tsing Sian-sung, coolie, Man Ts-tsang, hawker, Zee Ching-sang, ex-soldier, Wong Ching-pian, coolie and Hsu Tuh-ts, unemployed, given the death sentence, and Zung Zia-ts, and wife Zung Fee-ee, remanded a week, and Lee Ching-be, expelled.

Four of the five sentenced to death admitted the charges which included robbery of money, clothes and other personal effects extending over a period of several weeks.

GANG FIGHT IS SEEN AS CAUSE OF MEN'S DEATH

Unemployed Ship's Fireman Is Brutally Murdered In His Own Home

What the police believe to be the outcome of a dispute between gangs over the disposal of money extorted from the proprietor of a newly opened teashop had its climax in the murder of Mok Oong-sung, 28 years old, an unemployed ship's fireman, at his home No. 239 N. Honan Road.

The man was brutally stabbed and hacked by a gang of eight men, while his wife, helpless and terrified, looked on. Although the attack occurred last Sunday, the police were not informed until three days later because the wife, frightened by the threats of her husband's assailants, had had him removed to a hospital outside the Settlement, in accordance with their instructions.

According to the wife of the murdered man, four men came to their home on November 13 and demanded the loan of $50. This was refused by her husband. On Sunday, eight men came. Two were armed with pistols and remained on the lower floor of the house, guarding the entrances. Six others went upstairs and began hacking and stabbing the man with choppers and knives. In all, they inflicted sixteen serious wounds.

Warning the wife not to communicate with the police, and directing her to have her husband removed to a hospital outside the Settlement in order that the police might not hear of the crime, the men fled. It was only after the victim's death at the Chinese Philanthropic Hospital on Paoshan Road that the police were notified.

NEW DEFENCE COMMISSIONER TO ABOLISH OWN OFFICE

Agrees To Scrap Yamen Later When Peking Settles Down

FETES LEADERS

Directors Of Chambers And Educators Entertained

That he will on his own initiative ask Peking to abolish his office after the reunification of the nation was the promise made last night by General Chang Yung-ming, the Peking appointee of the Defence Commissioner of Sungkiang and Woosung at a dinner given by him at the Union Club in honor of business and educational leaders in Shanghai.

More than 50 directors of the Shanghai Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, the Nantao Chamber of Commerce and of the Kiangsu Educational Association were present. In proposing the health of the guests, General Chang said:

"Although I am a mere soldier, I feel keenly sensible of my responsibilities. Wherever our troops happened to be, it was our duty to see that the peace and order of the locality was maintained. In our expedition to Kiangsu under instructions from the government, we had observed the same principle. Upon our arrival at Lunghua and Kaochangmiao at the head of the expedition, we at once declared an armistice on one hand and accepted the order of the Central Government, on the other hand, to maintain the peace of the locality.

"We are happy to observe that the business men and residents of Shanghai were pleased with the presence of our forces. Although there has been a certain amount of dislocation, the situation on the whole was satisfactory, since there was no cause for alarm among the populace. Things are now shaping up better and normality is being secured. Our troops were guests of the city, so we were about to return to our original post. But on the 7th of this month, the Central Government appointed me the Defence Commissioner of Sungkiang and Shanghai. I had no opportunity to decline.

"Shanghai is a great international and commercial metropolis. There was no necessity for the establishment of military bureaus. It was not my wish to acquire high office contrary to the popular will of the city, or to leave behind a cause for future disturbance.

"However, the office is one which was established by the legal government of the Republic. The question of its abolition or its existence must be solved by the Central Government.

"The Central Government has repeatedly urged me to assume office. Several official orders have been issued on the subject. After careful deliberation and much reluctance, I am compelled to assume office at present in order to carry out the government functions and maintain the peace of the district. My original principle will be strictly adhered to. As soon as the political situation is settled and the nation is reunited, I shall on my own initiative sug-

Conciliatory Stand Shown Toward Chihli

BY CHARLES J. FOX
(Special to The China Press)

Tientsin, Nov. 20.—The affluence and generosity of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, overlord of the Three Eastern Provinces, are greatly enhancing his influence here.

Marshal Chang has adopted a very conciliatory attitude towards the Chihli officials, declaring that he is not in Tientsin as a conqueror. He has instructed his followers to pay for everything which they get and has also distributed $2,000,000 from his personal funds in order to assist the poor of Tientsin and vicinity.

Under instructions emanating from Marshal Chang, many of the former Chihli officials are being retained in service or reinstated.

It has also been ascertained that Marshal Chang will pay the "National Army" through Marshal Tuan Chi-jui.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 19.—Hankow papers have been received in Peking announcing the formation of the "Military Government" with headquarters at Wuchang.

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, Nov. 20.—With regard to the manifesto concerning the establishment of a constitutional military Government in Wuchang, a well-informed Chinese politican here has told the Eastern News Agency in effect that Marshal Wu has no intention immediately to establish a military government but that the purport of the manifesto lies in the manifestation of the attitude on the part of those militarists who are opposed to General Feng Yu-hsiang.

Marshal Wu's present intention is to return to Loyang as soon as possible with the sole object of restoring his influence again. As for his future policy towards Peking, it seems more than likely that Marshal Wu will from time to time hold conferences with those who are supporting him or he will be in telegraphic communication with them.

Shanghai Asked To Aid Stricken Residents Of War Areas Near City

After-effects of the China civil war, fought in areas adjacent to Shanghai, are now being felt.

During the fighting residents were driven from their homes and those homes were taken over by soldiers. Women and children were forced to flee to swamps and other dirty living quarters. Malaria, typhoid and other diseases spread.

Now, returning to their home villages, the residents find their homes devastated, animals killed, means of livelihood gone. Winter is coming on. Suffering of the people is being intensified by the cold weather.

Shanghai is being asked to help in the relief work. Two thousand students, representing the student bodies of 30 schools, will do their part in the relief work.

Shanghai citizens are asked to contribute to the work.

The army of school children will take possession of Shanghai tomorrow, armed with distinctive arm bands, bamboo banks and plenty of tags.

The purpose of this student invasion is to raise money for the unfortunate people, in the areas adjacent to Shanghai, who suffered and are suffering as a result of the recent war. Many thousands of women and children face the winter's cold without adequate clothing and without sufficient food. Thousands of others will succumb to disease unless Shanghai goes to their aid.

Three years ago a similar campaign to the one to be held tomorrow was carried through by Shanghai students, $25,000 being raised. With the co-operation of the residents of Shanghai this result should be duplicated or bettered this time.

The drive has been carefully planned. The students of each school have a definite area which they are to cover. The inspectors, about 200 in number, will be Y.M.C.A. secretaries and college and middle school teachers.

The students of government, mission, and private schools, both men and women, will join together in the effort. Some of the students of Tung Wen Japanese College have signified their desire and intention of working among the Japanese business people for the same cause.

Each giver will receive a tag. Any amount of money will be accepted. The committee expects that at least 200,000 tags will be disposed of during the day. Each contributor is asked to drop the money into the bank.

At the end of the day the banks will be turned in and their contents counted by the representatives of the Bank of China. The funds will be administered by a Board of Trustees comprised of leading business men and students in co-operation with the Y.M.C.A.

The money donated by the Shanghai public will be used to meet the immediate needs of the people of some of the nearby villages which were so direfully ravaged during and shortly after the fighting.

A foreign physician, now doing medical work in the war area, reports the present situation as follows:

Thousands of people have already died from typhoid and malaria. Several thousand women and girls are now seriously ill with these diseases. Having to flee at the approach of soldiers they lived for a number of days in swamps where they were without means of guarding themselves from mosquitoes who spread malignant malaria among them. They were forced to drink swamp water and typhoid has been the result. Lack of food has weakened the vitality of a great number and made them susceptible to the infectious diseases which are increasingly rampant. In a number of the villages at present approximately half the inhabitants are ill.

The farmers have lost many of their buffalo, cattle, and other animals which were slaughtered by the soldiery.

Hundreds of wells were polluted by the soldiers. These wells must be pumped dry and treated with chemicals. Hundreds of houses in addition to be looted were filled with filth by the armies. Dead animals are to be seen in many of the canals and waterways.

In several villages unsealed coffins containing three, four, and even five dead soldiers are lying about. The stench is terrific and disease germs are multiplying at a terrifying rate.

Swedish Countess Guest Of Y.W.C.A. On Visit Here

Shanghai's Foreign Y.W.C.A. was hostess yesterday to a distinguished visitor, in the person of Countess Elsa Bernadotte, daughter of Prince Oscar of Sweden, second son of the late King of Sweden. The Countess, with Miss Ethel Stevenson, of London, is on a world tour, having come here from the Conference of the World's Y.W.C.A. recently held in Washington. Countess Bernadotte acted as proxy for one of the Swedish delegates and Miss Stevenson was a member of the Executive Committee of the World's Y.W.C.A.

From Washington the Countess and Miss Stevenson toured America, then went to Japan, visited Korea, Manchuria, Peking and Tientsin before coming here. They left last night for Hankow where the Countess is interested in inspecting the "Y" work, as well as at Changsha, where Sweden is supporting the work of the "Y" secretaries. The Countess, while not making this trip in the interest of the Y.W.C.A. is nevertheless interested in seeing its work in the different countries she visits. She is an ardent feminist but is very much of a home woman too. In speaking of the status of women in Sweden she said that women now enjoyed practically all the political rights that men do. "Women are in the Swedish Parliament," she said, "although they cannot become Prime Ministers as they can in Denmark."

FARM PRODUCTS SHOW STAGED IN SHANTUNG TOWN

Agricultural Exhibition Is Conducted At Weihsien For Students And Farmers

(China Press Correspondence)

Weihsien, Shantung, Nov. 16—On Friday, October 31, and the following Saturday, the newly organised department of agriculture at the Point Breeze Academy conducted a Farm Products Show Institute for the benefit of the students and the nearby farmers. Since the mission compound, where the school is located, is surrounded by country villages the problem was not to secure a crowd but to select the leading farmers from various sections. To this end, tickets of admission were printed and issued through the office of the County Superintendent of the schools and village elders throughout the district. The students from the Weihsien city schools also wished to come; so the first day was given over to them and the students or residents of the compound. About 3,000 attended.

Thanks are due to the Extension Department of the College of Agriculture and Forestry at Nanking for the program. Mr. Griming and his associate, Mr. Chow Ming-yi, lectured, arranged charts and exhibits of improved corn, cotton, silk, organised two plays, and kept up a continuous showing of the Agricultural movies. We would freely recommend the latter to anyone wishing to arouse interest among farmers, and at the same time give them something of a distinctly educational nature. At Weihsien, no sooner would one audience be turned out of the darkened room before another one would be ready, clamoring to see the "tien ying-'er".

Another factor which contributed largely to the success of the Fair was the presence of three representatives of the Tsingtao Agricultural Experiment Station, Mr. T. F. Lee, who came as the personal delegate of Director Lin, Mr. L. H. Li, and Mr. T. C. Chen, all of whom gave very efficient and willing service in explaining the methods and ideals of improved Agriculture to the crowd. They likewise brought with them a fine selection of forestry and corp exhibits, among which the immense apples and sweet potatoes grown on the experimental farm were especially noticeable. A great deal of interest was also aroused by the well prepared sections of commercial Chinese woods.

SAMPLES ARE SHOWN

Some attractive samples of improved cotton and high-yielding wheat were also displayed by Mr. H. H. White of Nanhsuchow (Anhwei Prov.) from his Agricultural School Farm.

In addition to the purely agricultural exhibits, one room was filled with an extensive and skillfully arranged collection of birdskins and biological specimens, the personal property of the instructor in Biology. In another place the student nurses from the hospital staged a health demonstration.

The display of local farm products was naturally limited, for it had not been considered wise to advertise the affair promiscuously in these tronbled times and there had not been sufficient preparation to get the idea out through organised channels. In fact one prime objective of this first attempt was to establish the idea and stimulate preparations for another year.

However, there were two rooms well filled with a good assortment of fruits, vegetables, and grains, grown on the compound or brought in by students or neighboring farmers. Aside from the foreign cabbage squash, etc., probably the exhibit attracting the most attention were two immense Chinese radishes, and some improved American cotton grown on the school farm. The students in the agricultural classes had prepared a number of ingenious exhibits, for example the Chinese sign over the door, which was made by two boys who, borrowing a large blackboard, and using five kinds of grains in five different colors, worked out the Chinese characters for "Agricultural Exhibition" (Nung-Yeh Chan-Lan Hui). The country schools also sent in an interesting lot of notebooks in rural geography or community study, which were competing for a special prize.

RIBBONS AWARDED

The judging of the local farm products was done under the oversight of Mr. L. H. Li. Ribbons were awarded for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places, and a limited number of other prizes in the form of cotton seed, silkworm eggs, and subscriptions to the Nanking Agriculture and Forestry Newspaper were distributed to the highest point winner. A system of receipts was worked out so that the materials brought for exhibition could be returned to the original owner, and the whole matter went off very smoothly. Although the winners were pleased with their prizes, the emphasis seemed to stay where it belonged, on the production and preparation of high class exhibits for their own value, and a good many farmers were heard to declare their intention of beginning early to prepare for another year. It is hoped that the Fair can be made into an annual event which will be able to make a real contribution to the rural life and agricultural improvement of the district.

Hangchow Railway Officials At Work On Bridge No. 34

The engineering staff of the Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railway is putting the finishing touches on the repairs to bridge No. 34 which crosses the left fork of the Wangpoo several miles beyond Sungkiang, and within a few days passengers to Hangchow will only need to cross one stream by launch to make the connection whereas at present the launch journey takes several hours.

The situation is this. Several miles south of the railway the Whangpoo divides into two forks, and the launch at present runs down one fork to the junction and up on the other to a point several miles beyond bridge No. 34, where bridge No. 31 is located. It is the latter bridge that is the big job, the repairs to which will take about another month. Through traffic cannot be opened by rail until bridge No. 31 is repaired.

gest to the Central Government that the office of the Defence Commissioner should be abolished so that Shanghai will be a purely commercial center and in order that the aspirations of the residents in Shanghai, both Chinese and foreign, may be realised.

"I lift up my cup to voice my wish for your good health and the prosperity of the City of Shanghai!"

Mr. Yu Yah-ching, chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, responding for the merchants, expressed satisfaction with the promise made by Gen. Chang. He asserted that as merchants, he and his colleagues were only interested in commerce and it would be suicidal if further warfare should take place in this vicinity.

Mr. Yen-pei, on behalf of the educational interests, paid a tribute to the new commissioner for his courage in making such a welcome announcement and stated that the name of the general would go down in Shanghai's history with its full glory if he would at the earliest possible moment carry out the promise that he had made at the dinner.

Shantung Auto Road Reopened After Wu Heads For Yangtsze

(China Press Correspondence)

Weihsien, Shantung, Nov. 15.—The Weihsien-Chefoo auto road began running buses on a commercial basis again yesterday after the road had been taken over for some days for military purposes. There was fear that Marshal Wu Pei-fu might attempt to reach Tsinan from Chefoo by way of this road and consequently precautions were taken to prevent such a move. The guards of the motor road had been disarmed. The troops which had been stationed here by the military governor to prevent Wu Pei-fu from coming through either from Chefoo or from Tsingtao have been withdrawn to Tsinan today.

Shanghai mails to Weihsien have been cut off for the last two weeks. Only two mails had come through during that time up to this morning.

A severe epidemic of jaundice is very widespread throughout this region. Many cases are reported from the country as well as in the city. Large numbers have died, but nearly all the deaths that we have heard of have been of women. The doctors are at a loss to know how the infection takes place and it seems very difficult to quarantine against it.

ENDOWMENT INSURANCE — WHOLE LIFE INSURANCE

Unimpaired Assets

GOING without life insurance is placing a great burden of risk upon your family and your enterprises. Carrying as large a line of insurance as you prudently can will often save to your estate much more than the amount of insurance itself. It will turn equities into unimpaired assets.

WAITING until you "can afford" more insurance entails hazards that the prudent, serious-minded person will avoid. We can be of real help to you in working out an insurance plan that will cover your needs. Without obligating you we shall be glad to discuss it with you upon request.

COOLIE IS SHOT; ACCIDENTAL, HE INFORMS POLICE

Conflicting Stories Are Told Regarding Wounding Of Mill Employe

Police of the Yangtszepoo Station are endeavoring to make out the truth in a tangle of conflicting stories which has been told them regarding the shooting of Fu Yih-wo, a coolie employed at the Dah Kong Cotton Mill, 2 Tengyueh Road, who is now at the Shantung Road Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in the right thigh about six inches above the knee. The man's condition is not serious, although fifteen days' medical treatment will be required.

According to one of the stories told the police by Fu, and later corroborated by a friend of his, Sung Yoong-bing, who had brought him to the hospital, the man was shot accidentally by Sung while the latter was examining a revolver at Fu's home, 421 Haichow Road. Search of the house, however, failed to reveal any trace of the weapon.

Both men are to be arraigned in the Mixed Court on charges of being in possession of arms and also on a charge of being undesirables.

Shanghai Chapter, D.A.R. Has Meeting; Program Is Planned

The Shanghai Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, recently instituted, held a meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. P. H. Dunbar, 688 Avenue Joffre, Mrs. Wilbur, acting regent, presided.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Frederick Mead, of Plainfield, New Jersey, who is a charter member of the chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Plainfield. Mrs. Mead, in an inspiring address, told of the inauguration of the Plainfield chapter thirty-three years ago and of the work which has been accomplished by the chapter since then in marking historic spots in the vicinity of Plainfield. She referred particularly to the action of the members of the Plainfield chapter in subscribing funds for the purchase of the premises occupied by Washington during his stay in Plainfield, which were turned over to the city as a permanent memorial to the father of the American Republic.

At a business meeting which followed committees were appointed as follows: Patriotic and Educational; Correct Use of the Flag; Philippines Endowment and Scholarship.

The next meeting of the chapter will be a dinner meeting on December 11 at the home of the vice-regent, Mrs. H. A. Wilbur, 723 Dixwell Road, when Mr. Guy C. Stockton will speak on the Colonisation of America.

A tentative program prepared for the chapter includes papers on subjects concerning early days in American history. Mrs. Sheldon will deliver a paper in March on the Influence of the Huguenots; in April Mrs. MacNair will speak on Massachusetts; Mrs. Wilbur will deliver a paper in May on Plymouth, and later there will be papers on Virginia, by Mrs. Roberts; Connecticut, by Mrs. Challoner, and Maine, by Mrs. Dunbar.

Plan Prosecution In Bank Failure At Toronto, Can.

(Reuter's American Service)

Toronto, Oct. 20.—Prosecution of the directors and officials of the Home Bank of Canada, which failed for $18,456,978 last year on charges other than those contained in the conspiracy indictments already returned, will be undertaken by the Ontario Government, it was announced today by Mr. D. H. McCarthy, special counsel acting for the Attorney-General.

Pending action by a grand jury on the new charges, the conspiracy charges will not be prosecuted, Mr. McCarthy said. He did not reveal the nature of the new charges.

Mr. Herbert J. Daly, who was president of the bank, and Mr. T. S. O'Connor, his secretary, have died since the clash. Mr. Daly was accused in connection with the failure and Mr. O'Connor was being held as a material witness. Nine other persons were involved in the case.

Injured In Dance

MISS LUCY DE SHEIMO

Miss Lucy de Sheimo, popular dancer who has been appearing recently in an extended engagement at the Hotel Plaza, suffered an unfortunate injury on Tuesday night, which, it is believed, will make it impossible for her to dance for about two weeks.

While appearing in a "Vampire and Girl" dance at the Plaza on Tuesday night, Miss de Sheimo pirouetted about her partner, M. Kurovsky, with one hand clasped by Kurovsky to steady her in the difficult step.

Although the big crowd at the Plaza was unaware of it, Mr. Kurovsky had maintained so firm a grip on Miss de Sheimo's hand as she twisted about that the middle finger of the left hand was broken. Despite the pain which she suffered, Miss de Sheimo managed to finish the dance without giving any indication of her injury. Later, an x-ray examination was made by Dr. H. Mertens, who found that the finger had been badly fractured and ordered that Miss de Sheimo refrain from dancing for two weeks.

Two Minor Fires Do Little Damage

Two minor fires occurred yesterday afternoon, the fire department reported last night. One blaze on Ward Road started shortly after 4 o'clock. Smoke hindered the work of the firemen but little damage was done to the interior of the building. The other blaze at 426 East Seward Road was extinguished before the firemen arrived.

Cairo Assassins Employ Pistols As Bombs Fail

ly injured. The assailants entered a taxi-cab waiting in a side street. Two Englishmen on a motorcycle and sidecar slowed down for the purpose of taking the number of the taxi-cab whereupon a man jumped out from the taxi-cab and fired repeatedly at the motorcyclists but missed them. The taxi-cab then speeded off.

It is worthy of note that Mr. Asquith, who is on a holiday in Egypt, was received in audience by King Fuad this morning.

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, Nov. 19.—A bulletin says that Major-General Sir Lee Stack is suffering from shock and three bullet wounds in the stomach, hand and foot. His condition is serious.

Sir Lee Stack's aide-de-camp, Captain Campbell of the Black Watch, was hit in the chest and the chauffeur in the arm and leg.

The Prime Minister, Zaghlul Pasha, and Cabinet Ministers called at the Residency and expressed profound shock and sorrow. A deputation from the Chamber of Deputies expressed similar sentiments. Zaghlul Pasha was obviously very affected.

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, Nov. 19.—The attack upon the Sirdar was made in the Shariakasrelaini, the main busy throughfare. The Egyptian chauffeur in spite of his wounds brought the car at full speed to the Residency which was nearer than the Sirdaria. Field-Marshal Viscount Allenby, the High Commissioner for Egypt, Mr. Asquith and others were lunching when the wounded were brought in and there was general stupefaction.

Zaghlul Pasha, interviewed by Reuter's correspondent, was very much moved. He described his horror on seeing the wounded at the Residency and said that he went to the Palace and informed the King who was very pained. Zaghlul Pasha added that an enquiry had been opened. The chauffeur of the taxi-cab had already been arrested and the Government would leave no stone unturned to bring the perpetrators to justice.

Zaghlul Pasha has issued a communique appealing to the public to aid the authorities and offering £10,000 reward for the apprehension of the criminals.

The Sirdar will be operated on at the Anglo-American Hospital. He intended to leave for the Sudan yesterday evening but had postponed his departure until November 23.

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, Nov. 19.—The operation on the Sirdar has been successful. His condition is as good as can be expected.

Later.—The bullet was found lodged under the lung. The stomach was full of blood but the intestines were not perforated. The stomach muscles are intact. Transfusion was proceeded with and has done good.

The Sirdar's condition near midnight was more hopeful.

It is now thought that about eight assailants were involved. They escaped in two taxis.

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, Nov. 20.—There is a slight improvement in the Sirdar's condition which is still very serious.

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, Nov. 20.—The Sirdar had been unwell yesterday morning, and only with an effort attended the War Ministry. He had not eaten anything, which in the circumstances was fortunate.

Zaghlul Pasha in an interview with representatives of the press deplored the attack on the Sirdar which, he said, was very astonishing when the country had returned to tranquillity on the withdrawal of his resignation. Zaghlul Pasha stated he was convinced the deed was done by criminals who wanted to disturb the peace of the country.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 20.—The attack on the Sirdar has created a profound impression here and newspaper leaders reflect the deep indignation felt. Not only is condign punishment of the assassins demanded, but energetic British action in order to re-establish respect for Great Britain in Egypt. The Egyptian Government, the Chambers and especially Zaghlul Pasha, are largely held morally responsible for he crime owing to their anti-British attitude.

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, Nov. 20.—The Sirdar's condition is very grave. Hemorrhage is affecting the digestion, causing sickness, but the doctors do not abandon hope. The next 24 hours will probably be decisive.

BOWLING ALLEYS WILL BE OPENED SHORTLY IN CITY

American Club And Columbia Country Club To Provide Good Exercise

The crash of 10 pins or duck pins will soon be heard in Shanghai, for two new clubs, the American Club, to be opened within 10 days, and the Columbia Country Club, the athletic wing of which was opened last Monday, have bowling alleys.

The American Club alleys will be opened very soon, while the Country Club alleys will not be inaugurated until the remainder of the building is completed. At present the space for the bowling alleys is occupied as a lounge room.

Shanghai has been without bowling alleys for several years. The old Shanghai Bowling Club ran 10 pin and duck pin tourneys, but that was several years ago, and the only bowling recently has been the lawn bowls of the various European clubs, a game that is not quite noisy enough for the majority of Americans.

Four alleys are to be operated in each club. The American Club alleys will be in the basement, just to the right of the entrance, with shower baths and Turkish baths on the other side. The Country Club alleys are located off the gymnasium, now in use as a ball room for the Sunday afternoon tea dances and the occasional private dances there.

Bowling tournaments are expected to be gotten under way in a few months. Bowling is both an interesting indoor sport and an excellent cold weather exercise, and there are many who look forward to some fine work on the new alleys.

Walter Hagen, Golf Champion

Two days ago came the wire that Walter Hagen had won the United States Open Golf Tournament at Norfolk, Va. This puts Hagen practically back in his place as the premier golfer of the world, a title which he has earned by winning almost every title worth holding in the professional ranks, whether in the United States, England, Scotland, or France. Hagen did in England what no one outside the British Isles ever did before when he twice captured the British open championship.

Hagen is now 31 years of age. It was five years ago, in 1919, that he last won the American Open Championship, but now he has come through victorious again. He is one of the finest putters of all times, and in fact a great golfer who plays the game as it should be played in every particular.

RING CHAMPIONS AS GOOD AS EVER, BUT AFTER MONEY

Dempsey Real Fighter, Some Desperate Battles Of The Past

Are modern boxers in a class with the old-timers?

Every week, says Robert Edgren, I get a box full of letters from old-time boxers or fight fans who claim that the up-to-date champion is a counterfeit when compared to the strong boys back in the '80s and '90s," and before that. Hardly a day goes by without an eight-page protest from some veteran who used to go out into the woods to see John L. Sullivan fight, or who followed Jack McAuliffe or Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, or who watched Kid Lavigne battle Joe Walcott to a standstill, or saw Terry McGovern go through Pedlar Palmer of England like a cyclone. The old-timers are loyal to old-time fighters. They think that modern ringsters ought to be behind ribbon counters. According to old-timers, the champions who we have today don't know how to put their hands up, and don't know what real fighting is.

MEN AS GOOD AS EVER

So far as I have seen, there's little physical difference between old-time champions and champions up to date. There are as good men now as there ever were in the ring. The chief difference is that old-time fighters weren't influenced so much by the thought that winning meant a fortune and defeat was a form of bankruptcy.

The fight was the great thing in the old days.

The money is the big thing today.

Old-time fighters fought desperately and recklessly.

Modern fighters are extremely cautious. They take no risk that can be dodged. A championship is something to be grabbed if possible and then to be held as long as possible by outwitting the other fellows who are after it.

Dangerous matches are avoided and the modern champion is very fond of no-decision matches, in which he can run or stall and hold his title if he finds he can't win.

DEMPSEY REAL FIGHTER

Jack Dempsey is the only champion today who fights with the reckless abandon of the old-timers. Dempsey doesn't know how to stall, and wouldn't if he could. He is the biggest money-maker the ring ever knew and he takes good care of the money he earns, but in the ring he always goes out to win in the first round if he can. He'll dive in and trade punches with any man living. Dempsey likes money, but he isn't crazy over it. Manager Jack Kearns handles all the business and Dempsey concentrates his mind on the training and the fighting.

But there were some desperate birds in the old days. Bob Fitzsimmons would have delighted in taking on Jack Dempsey, confident of outmatching him in the battle of wits and slipping in the winning punch. Fitzsimmons feared nothing on earth, and was most dangerous when he reeled around the ring apparently helpless.

Many times Fitzsimmons was nearly knocked out and won with a punch. Peter Maher had him on the floor, cold, for eight seconds. He got up, staggered into Peter with his hands down and knocked Peter out with one terrific blow as soon as he could lift them again.

DESPERATE FIGHTS

I saw Kid McCoy, knocked down and nearly out by the great yellow haired fighter, Kid Carter, saved by the bell, walk out in the next round and totter across the ring to meet Carter in his own corner. McCoy couldn't lift a hand from his sides. His gloves dangled as he closed with Carter and ducked to break the force of punches that grazed his ears. It was fully a minute in the third round before McCoy could get his hands up, and when he did he hit Carter a hook that threw him half way across the ring and headlong into the ropes.

Desperate fighting followed, in which McCoy was knocked down six times, yet in the sixth round he was still on his feet, was forcing the fighting, and had Carter groggy and cut to pieces. McCoy was cleverest boxer of his day, but desperate at all times. If he had come along now probably he would have been like most of the champions we see, a cautious business man.

Kid Lavigne at Maspeth, fighting the Barbadoes Demon, Joe Walcott, had both ears nearly torn off by blows, his eyes closed, nose broken, teeth splintered. Still he rushed and fought until Walcott broke under the fierce pace and backed away, beaten.

"TERRIBLE TERRY"

In his fighting prime Terrible Terry McGovern was knocked down just once—by Oscar Gardner. The blow dazed McGovern so that he was helpless. But the instinct to get up was so strong that when he couldn't shove himself from the floor he crawled to where Gardner stood waiting for him, and climbed up Gardner's legs to renew the fight. As soon as he was up Terry began fighting again with a Berserk fury that soon had Gardner down—to stay. McGovern never practiced any defense; his whole defense was in the fury of his attack.

John L. Sullivan was desperate in all his fights. He was like Dempsey—always trying to win with a wild rush and a flurry of furious fighting.

The fierceness of his attack made him such a reputation that most of the men who met him were half beaten before they came into the ring. If Sullivan had taken care of himself he never would have been beaten until old age took away his speed and strength. But he "drank like a fish" between fights, shirked training and degenerated into a fat and flabby caricature of the great John L. who used to knock men out with blows like the thud of a caulker's mallet.

And there was Peter Maher, who came from Ireland with a punch in either mitt such as has seldom been seen. An awful hitter, Peter was, and desperate enough to please anyone. I never took any stock in the tales that Peter had a yellow streak. Peter never feared any man but Fitzsimmons, and he had plenty of company in that. Many times I've seen Peter come up from a knock-down—for he had a glass jaw in later days—and put that sock over for a one-punch win.

Legendre's Great Jump In Olympics Year's Sensation

Every season usually finds at least one outstanding performance in track and field competition. In 1923 it was Charles Brookins' sensational breaking of the 220-yard low hurdle record, a mark which had withstood the test of time for a quarter of a century.

This year the honor goes to Robert Legendre, member of the Olympic team and former luminary at Georgetown University. Legendre earned his laurels in the running broad jump at the International games with a leap of 25 feet 6 inches, a new world's record. The old mark, three inches less, was held by Ned Gourdin, ex-Harvard brilliant.

Legendre's record was a surprise. It exceeded anything that he had ever done before by almost a foot. It was the most sensational performance turned in by any American athlete abroad.

Moreover, it cast De Hart Hubbard of Michigan out of the picture. Hubbard had been picked as the one most likely to smash Gourdin's mark. Several times Hubbard had gone beyond the 25-foot mark, once he hit 25 feet 2 inches and he cleared 25 feet 5 1-2 but the mark was disallowed because he overstepped the takeoff.

Now along comes Legendre with his thrilling leap and spills the dope. He made it in the decathlon. Hubbard, it is true, won the broad jump as expected, but was able only to clear 24 feet 6 inches.

Such popularity must be deserved

LUCK may win an occasional match. But it never made a champ. Cups can't be won year after year unless they are deserved.

There are cup-winning cigarettes, too.

All eyes today are watching Chesterfield—watching it win additional smokers at the rate of over 1000 a day.

Such popularity is not luck. Chesterfields deserve it. They deserve it simply by right of their decidedly better taste.

News Brevities

Today is the third and last day of Miss Elizabeth Keith's delightful exhibition of color prints at the A.W.A. rooms in the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank Building. No one interested in art, or in the purchase of lovely Christmas gifts, should miss the opportunity of seeing the prints, which are full of interest and have already attracted many purchasers. Many of the prints which have been before the public only two years are already "finished;" that is, the supply of copies from the original block has been exhausted. The newest one, judging by the demand for "Soochow Night Scene," "Soochow Bridge," "Hongkong Harbor" and others should prove as popular. The exhibition is from 10 to 1 and from 2:30 to 6 today.

The fact that William Walsh, a retired policeman, who died on February 18 last at 149 East Eighty-first Street, New York, had $64,640 in thirteen savings banks was disclosed when an appraisal of his estate was filed. The other assets of the estate consisted of $192 in household effects and $18 in unpaid pension. Walsh transferred to his wife $34,640 of the deposits in January. For this reason the estate was insufficient to pay the bequests in full. They were $35,000 to his widow, $10,000 to his nephew, Cornelius Clogan, and $100 each to his brother John and to a number of nieces, cousins and other relatives who accordingly received slightly more than half of the bequests. The State Tax Commission ruled that the $34,640 was part of the taxable estate on the ground that Walsh gave the money to his wife in contemplation of death.

Prince Caetani, the millionnaire Italian Ambassador to the United States, whose luxurious apartments on Massachusetts Avenue in Washington have been the scene of many a festivity, has sent in his resignation to the Italian Government. Prince Caetani has earned bitter reproaches from Mussolini for failing to secure the visit of Secretary Hughes to Rome when he was in Europe. It is perhaps fortunate for diplomacy that China is so far away: otherwise the reports sent from Peking to the Foreign Offices of the world on contemporary history might, according to the quidnuncs, cause heart-burnings if nothing worse at the present moment, as they have been lamentably deficient, says the Far Eastern Times.

A FRANK STATEMENT!

IN announcing a new picture, the conscientious exhibitor finds it most difficult to convey the excellence for fear he will over-rate or sometimes underrate its real value.

We are in just this position in announcing

"KOENIGSMARK"

THE public and critics in EUROPE who have seen it are unanimous in pronouncing "KOENIGSMARK" the most unusual picture ever made, a revelation in every way!

So totally different that it just doesn't permit comparison with any other picture!

Their comments tempt us to refer to it as "THE GREATEST," "THE MOST WONDERFUL" motion picture ever made.

But one reads so many such claims that these adjectives have long since lost their true meaning.

So we merely wish to convey that

S.V.C. MEMBER HAS DUEL WITH ARMED ROBBERS

Cautioned Not To Use Rifle On Settlement Roads Again, However

Dai Foh-tsoong, an enthusiastic member of the Maritime Customs Company of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, was cautioned by the police not to fire his rifle on Settlement Roads in the future, after Dai had done so in an encounter with a gang of six men, believed to be armed robbers, early yesterday morning on Singapore Road near Kiaochow Road.

Dai and three other Chinese are watchmen at the Yau Jau Pang Village near the junction of the two roads. At 4:30 o'clock in the morning, six men approached them. They challenged the men to halt, and in return, one of the party drew a pistol and fired one shot, which did not take effect. Then all turned and ran down Singapore Road, escaping into the country. Dai picked up his rifle and fired three shots at the men, none of which, however, took effect.

Police of the Pootoo Road and and Gordon Road stations were attracted by the sounds of the shots. On the road, near where the encounter had taken place, were found two foot rules. Subsequently these were identified as having been stolen, along with $200 worth of other property, from a pawnshop at 1542 Robison Road earlier in the night. The proprietor of the pawnshop told the police that six men had entered his place after forcing the back door and ransacked it. They fired three shots in leaving, he said, although this is doubtful.

Professor Whewell Here En Route To Tokio After Leave

Mr. William Whewell, Professor of English at the University of Keio, Tokio, who is returning to the Japanese capital, passed through Shanghai yesterday.

Subsequent to the earthquake of last year, Mr. Whewell spent a year in England, vacationing and visiting the principal educational institutions there. Out of the data and notes collected throughout the fifty or sixty towns in which he was, Mr. Whewell has compiled an up-to-date and complete textbook, which will be taken into use in his university next March. The book, which will be brought out by a Japanese publishing house, bids fair to become a standard work.

Mr. Whewell sailed on the Hazoski Maru for Kobe early this morning.

Economic And Financial Conditions In October

Exports Contracted For Could Not Be Delivered Owing To Lack Of Railway Communication

The following are extracts from the excellent report prepared by Dr. E. Kann, Acting Manager of the Chinese-American Bank of Commerce, relative to financial and economic conditions during October.

CHINA

Judged by the number of important happenings in China, October was a month of the utmost importance. Decisive results regarding the issue of the internal warfare have been obtained. On October 13th the struggle round Shanghai was abandoned by the Chekiang leaders. Towards the close of the month, owing to the defection of one of Wu Pei Fu's lieutenants, the greater struggle in North Chi turned in favor of Chang Tso-lin, who had thus gained a complete and easy victory over his adversary, Wu Pei-fu. The attempt on the part of the Canton volunteer corps to oust Sun Yat-sen and his party from Kwangtung ended in failure. In order to suppress that movement Sun Yat-sen's mercenary troops put fire to a section of Canton city, thereby rendering homeless a considerable portion of the population, whose homes and belongings were burnt or plundered.

As a sequel to the happenings in the North, President Tsao Kun was forced out of office by Feng Yu Hsiang. While military operations have could an end for the time being, we are probably at the beginning of political complication; which are bound to leave their effects on trade. When the month of October ended many questions, connected with the immediate future of the country, began to loom on the political horizon.

It will depend on the manner or possibility of solving those problems, whether China will be able to soon go ahead with fruitful work or continue with party struggles.

The import trade all over China has been exceedingly dull in October. Deliveries were somewhat better, when compared with September. But new orders were not forthcoming. Usually in October large orders are placed for paper, to arrive here in spring; such orders are now conspicuous by their absence.

Towards the end of October piece goods auctions at Shanghai were resumed, though the turnover was very small indeed. The price of metals on the China market, which had been languishing for so many months, showed7 slight improvements in October.

According to custom records the Import of timber into Shanghai to September was as follows:

Soft wood plank:

	sq. feet
From Foochow	1,138,000

Hard wood:

	sq. feet
From Singapore	1,252,000
From Vladivostok	154,000
From Dutch Indies	657,000
From Hongkong	125,000
	2,498,000

Soft wood:

	sq. feet
From U. S. A.	6,819,000
From Vladivostok	1,020,000
From Canada	36,000
From Japan	27,000
	7,892,000

Exports from China, when compared with the colume of imports during October, have been somewhat better, though naturally below the average. There was very good inquiry for dried hen albumen which, at the end of October, was quoted at New York at $1.10 per lb. with a distinct upward tendency.

Large quantities of sesamum seeds, which had been contracted for shipment in October, could in many instances not be delivered owing to the lack of means of communication. The price of sesamum seeds had advanced at Rotterdam by the end of October to £29 per ton.

Native interest rates at Shanghai during October constituted a low record. The average quotation was 0.034 candareens, corresponding to 1¼ percent per annum. Although the money market at Shanghai was unquestionably easy in October, the Native Banks were not prepared to lend out funds at low rates; probably not even at high rates. Their attitude was one of caution and patient waiting for the long overdue impovement of trade conditions.

Direct news obtained from the interior of China are in harmony with conditions at Shanghai. A policy of marking time has been forced upon all trading centers of the country.

As pointed out in our last month's report, the Hankow-Shanghai drawing rate depreciated to an unheard of degree, because it had become impossible to ship silver from or to Hankow. In order to prevent business from coming to a standstill, the Hankow Native Banks had issued clearing certificates to the extent of Tls. 1,500000. As compared with sycee these certificates had at one time depreciated 23 per mille, but in the same measure as they were redeemed the difference grew smaller. On October 31 it amounted to only 3 per mille. Needless to say that the depreciation of Hankow's currency reduced the already scanty chances for trade there.

The fact that treasure cannot be moved freely had its unmistakable consequences with regard to finance at Tsinanfu, where the Dollar is currency. Whereas the average remittance rate between Tsinan and Shanghai Dollar is 4 per mille, quotations had risen, during the closing days of October, to 3 and 4 percent premium (in favor of Tsinan).

By the end of October Harbin quoted from 12 to 12½ percent premium (in favor of Shanghai) on Dollar remittances.

CHINESE GOVERNMENT RAILWAY

Operating Revenue of Chinese Government Railways: The Chinese Government Railways received a total of $00,567,489 as the proceeds of their operations for the first half of the year. With the exception of the Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo, Kirin-Changchun, Hunan-Hupeh section of the Canton-Hankow-Szechwan, and Changchow-Amoy Lines, which met a decrease in their revenues, the rest of the Railways claimed an increase each running from $86,107 to $4,257,036. The total of the increases amounted to $9,700,395.

COTTON: CHINA

On October 15th 1924 the Chinese Cotton Mill Owners Association has published a fourth and final estimate in accordance with which the yield of this season's crop is to be 7,811,062 piculs, which is an increase of 9.33 percent over the yield of the previous season.

INTERNAL LOANS

Coincident with the improvement of the war situation internal bonds appreciated in price. The 6 percent ninth-year loan bonds, towards the end of October, reached 80 percent, while the 6 percent Consolidated advanced to 70 percent.

While this latter quotation speaks well for the confidence which the people apparently have in internal loans, it must be borne in mind that the 6 percent Consolidated loan is not covered by security. Consider, by way of comparison, the Chinese Reorganisation 5 percent loan of 1913, which is secured by the Salt and Customs Revenue and which is also quoted at 70 percent. Interest and capital are payable in any one of four foreign currencies.

NATIONAL CONSOLIDATED LOAN SERVICE

Cash Statement for Sept., 1924.

SILVER & EXCHANGE:

During October, silver prices gained further strength, quotations being on an average at 1 Penny above September levels. The Continent continued to be an intermittant buyer, as also did India. October was the most critical month for the factional strive in China, which even constitutes a sentimental cause for higher silver prices. The highest quotation in London during October was 36d., the lowest 34-13/16d.

The stocks of silver in Shanghai were ample in October, and considerable quantities of the white metal were on the way to this country, both from America and England. Although the chances for exports from China were predominating towards the end of October (imports still remaining neglected) it was generally thought that funds here are sufficient to take care of all visible requirements.

Towards the end of October the Chinese speculators at Shanghai had liquidated their oversold gold position and begun to get overbought, showing, that they expected lower silver prices. Exchange operations transacted in Shanghai during October were large in volume, though the bulk was of a speculative nature.

Cross rates for October call for little comment. The Sterling remained very steady, and only towards the closing days of the month moved up to 452⅛ in expectation of results as an outcome of the then impending elections in England.

The Franc also remained steady in October, though rather high, on a level of above 85 Francs per £.

The Yen, for reasons not easily to explain, depreciated further in October. The balance of trade for the third quarter of 1924 was in favor of Japan. The Government adopted measures to considerably reduce the budgetary expenses for the coming fiscal year; yet the Yen remained at an alarmingly low level.

NEW YORK VERSUS LONDON SILVER MARKET

The question whether London is likely to lose its place as the principle market for bar silver has been the subject of animated discussions during recent years. It is an undeniable fact that America has made enormous headway as a source for direct exports of bar silver to the Orient, to the detriment of the London silver market. Yet American authorities on the subject still hold to the believe that London is likely to maintain its place for a long time to come, as is proved by an article which appeared in the "Wall Street Journal" on 25th September 1924.

WHY SILVER PRICE IS MADE IN LONDON — WHILE ENGLAND DOES ORIENT'S BANKING FIGURE MUST BE MADE THERE.

Control of the silver market cannot be wrested from London, it is asserted by "Mining and Metallurgy," official journal of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. "There is much complaining and flaunting of nationalism because the silver prices are dominated in London," it says. "There is no earthly way that can be changed arbitrarily. Fifty years or two or three generations from now it might be.

"At present the price of silver in London is governed solely by the demand for exchange to settle the Oriental trade balances. These Oriental drafts are drawn on London by the British banks of the East. These drafts are matched against the silver supplies daily in London and the daily quotation of silver determined thereby.

"Until the commerce of the Orient, now handled by British houses through London banks, is transferred to American business and handled through the banks of this country, there is no possible way that the control of the price of silver can be wrenched from the British.

ORIENTAL STOCKS

"Moreover, there is in India a stock of silver estimated to be not less than 375,000,000 ounces and in China a stock of not less than 75,000,000 ounces. The banks at Hongkong and Shanghai are in an impregnable position, as is also the Bank of India. Against these enormous reserves of silver what could an American export association hope to do with its total annual production of 60,000,000 or 70,000,000 ounces?

"The Indian, the Hindu and the entire product from the market in an effort to advance the price, the London banks need only draw on these tremendous reserves of silver, offer them on the market, whereupon the American association must either purchase them to support the market at the price they had established or sell their stock of bullion at whatever the market would bring.

OUTLOOK FOR SILVER

"The economics of the situation encircle the globe. The total amount of silver consumed annually in the arts is about 15,000,000 ounces. Most of the nations of the world have demonetized silver and are either not using it at all for currency or have debased what little they do use, although there seems to be a better prospect since last fall.

"About 15,000,000 ounces are used annually for currency, other than in Oriental countries. The main market for the world's silver is east of Suez. Whether much or little silver will be consumed in India, the biggest market, depends on whether they have monsoon at the right time and, therefore, a favorable crop.

"The Indian, the Hindu and the Chinaman are all paid for their services in silver, when they amount to enough to be covered by silver coinage, and the rice and jute and tea which they raise are paid for in silver."

While the article referred to contains a good deal of truth, it is not altogether correct in its deductions. The reference to British houses controling the business of the Orient through British Banks remains true to a certain extent, but the share of the United States in China's foreign trade has increased considerably. Besides, exports to America from the Far East, which ten years ago used to be financed by Sterling drafts on London, are now financed exclusively by drafts in U. S. currency.

To illustrate the foregoing statement we quote the official figures, as compiled by the Chinese Maritime Customs.. In speaking of China's trade with England it should be understood that Great Britain without her colonies is referred to.

China's direct foreign trade with Great Britain:

		Ranking	Percentage of China's total imports	Exports	Imports	Total
H'kwan	1913	Seventh place	4.06 percent	$ 16,246,412	$ 43,207,126	$ 59,453,538
H'kwan	1923	Fourth place	6.74 percent	$ 96,510,044	$120,397,228	$216,907,272
China's direct foreign trade with America:
H'kwan	1913	Third place	16.52 percent	$ 37,650,304	$126,803,772	$164,454,076
H'kwan	1923	Fourth place	12.69 percent	$126,437,198	$154,447,651	$280,884,849
H'kwan	1913	Fifth place	9.34 percent	$ 37,650,304	$126,803,772	$164,454,076
H'kwan	1923	Third place	16.84 percent	$126,437,198	$154,447,651	$280,884,849
H'kwan	1913	Fifth place	6.01 percent	$ 35,437,198	$154,447,651	$189,884,849
H'kwan	1923	Third place	16.28 percent	$126,437,198	$154,447,651	$280,884,849

The figures require no comment, as they clearly show that by way of her participation in China's foreign trade the United States have become their own clearing house.

Another practical prove of the growing importance of New York as supplier of bar silver to the Far East can be found in the available statistics. In course of the first ten months of the current year bar silver arriving at Shanghai had its origin in:

	bars.
United States, to the extent of	25,037
Great Britain, to the extent of	6,310

These figures prove conclusively that the New York silver market has become a very serious rival to London. Even British India has become a direct buyer of bar silver at New York.

Dairen Bean Mills Emerging Out Of Settled Gloom

During the first decade of November, the Dairen total bean cake outputs reached 792,000 pieces, the mills in operation having increased to 45. Compared with the same period of last year, the outputs showed an increase by 384,000 pieces, and the number of the mills at work by about 20.

The Japanese newspaper at Dairen states that this striking increase is accounted for partially by the poor bean crops of last year, the reduction in demand for bean cake owing to the great earthquake, and especially the "soaked bean" nuisance.

This year, things have turned out decidedly more favorable, the bean crops having been normal in South Manchuria and 20 percent richer than ordinary in North Manchuria. Besides, the quality is very excellent. The oil percentage for new beans is as high as 5 or 5½ catties.

As to the demand the home markets used to be glutted with sulphate of ammonia left over from the previous summer, and that stood in the way of bean cake business. Further, the abnormally stiff silver rate hindered the export to Japan.

Lately, as the sulphate of ammonia stocks have almost been cleared, while the silver rate has come down to a more sober level, the dealers at home have begun to take the initiative in business.

Then, as to bean oil, Germany, as her reconstruction work advances, wants more fat and oil and oil-giving materials. Bean oil has risen correspondingly in price, and the export trade to Europe has become revived.

Under the circumstances the Dairen bean mills still find bean cake anything but commercially workable, but as regards bean oil, the situation has assumed a decidedly favorable turn.

Buddhist Priest Is Jailed For Sedition

(Reuter's Service)

Rangoon, Nov. 19.—A Buddhist priest, Nagoinda, who had twice been previously convicted of political offences, was today sentenced to five years' rigorous imprisonment for making a seditious speech at Mandalay.

Rubber Position Is "Tender," Says London Paper

Discussing the rubber position, the London "China Express" says: "At the present moment the position is distinctly tender, when the destruction of a few hundred tons on a steamer in New York harbor leads to a local price above London parity. Of course, there is a relief provided under the Steveson restriction scheme, in addition to that enforceable under average market price. This is that under the scheme a producer may export a larger quantity than is represented by the percentage of standard output in force by the payment of an extra rate of duty. It is quite conceivable that if a temporary forward contract can be made by a producer he will be prepared to pay the extra duty and ship over his permitted percentage within a certain number of months." It is a loophole that shows the elasticity of the Stevenson scheme. Such a provision may further have the effect of alleviating the rubber famine that so many people believe to be approaching

Exchange

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand in their exchange circular for week ending November 19th state:—The silver market in the London during the past week has been characterised by considerable fluctuations, the price having ranged between 34d. and 33 7/16d; today's quotations of 33 11/16d. ready and 33 7/16d. forward are respectively ¼d. and 1/16d. below those ruling this day last week. The official T.T. rate on London after touching 3-3 5/16d. closes unchanged @ 3-3 1/16d. The market locally has been largely speculative but the tendency, in spite of export paper being more in evidence and the continued lack of demand, still appears to be a sagging one.

The following rates are available at the close, T.T. on London 3-3 5/16d. T.T. on New York 76 5/16. The New York-London rate has advanced to 463 5/16.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 56,048,000; a decrease of Tls. 192,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $44,140,000, a decrease of $2,100,000.

Silver Yen. Yen. 800,000.

Commercial And Financial Notes

Two new Pacific coast service steamers for the Alaska service, inside run will shortly be added to the Canadian Pacific fleet. These vessels are to be the "Princess Kathleen" and "Princess Marguerita," and the first will be ready for delivery in December and the other in February, 1925. They are to be first-class steel twin-screw turbine oil-burning steamers, with a fuel capacity for a 2,000 mile voyage at a speed of 16 knots, capable of sustaining for several hours a speed of 22 knots. The length of each will be 350 feet, with a mean draft of about 17 feet. They will each accommodate 325 first-class night passengers in 147 rooms, and day accommodation for 1,000 first-class passengers.

Erected at a cost of $200,000, one of the handsomest marine terminals owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company recently was completed in Victoria, B. C. The terminal houses the general offices of the British Columbia Coast Service of the Canadian Pacific. The main building is 122 feet long, 54 feet wide and is of three stories, with a fourth story erected centrally over the structure. The structure is of stone and is a distinct acquisition to Victoria's waterfront already enhanced by the architectural beauty of the Provincial Parliament buildings and the Empress Hotel.

The Effect Of Wu Pei-fu's New War Declaration

AFTER all that Marshal Wu Pei-fu and his associates in the Yangtsze Valley have said in the last two years on the subject of the unification of China, it sounds strange indeed to read the declaration of independence carried by the news dispatches from Hankow appearing in the newspapers of yesterday and today. To pin these militarists down to specific cases, Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan of Kiangsu province made his attack upon General Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang on September 3 last and precipitated the recent civil war because Lu was pursuing an "independent" policy in respect to the Central Government. Marshal Wu Pei-fu launched his great attack upon Chang Tso-lin of Mukden for the same reason. Chang was a "rebel" and had to be brought into the fold by force of arms.

But the war in the North went against the Chihli military aggregation and now we hear Marshal Wu and his associates in the Yangtsze Valley uttering strange language. Not only do they refuse to join the government which their "enemies" have created, but are going to the far extent of setting up another Central Government at Wuchang. The dispatch from our correspondent in Hankow yesterday quoted Marshal Wu with a declaration to the effect that he intends to fight immediately against the "usurpers" in the National Capital.

If the Yangtsze militarists are sincere in their statements, it will at least have one good effect in the North in that will force a settlement of the misunderstanding which apparently exists between Marshal Chang Tso-lin and the Christian General Feng Yu-hsiang now in control of Peking. Very little real information has as yet come out of the Tientsin conference but one thing is quite apparent, and that is the impossibility of Chang and Feng to agree upon a division of spoils. Both want Tuan Chi-jui to go to Peking and head the new government, but after many days of negotiations, they apparently have not been able to agree as to who is to provide the "protection" for the new government headed by Tuan. There have been many conflicting reports about a division of territory and the stationing of troops in the country about Peking, but the real story is told in Tuan's continued delay in going to Peking. Naturally he is not going to Peking and immediately place himself between two rival armed camps. No one realises better then he does what this may mean to the man occupying the Presidency.

Therefore the new declaration of war by Wu Pei-fu and his associates in the Yangtsze Valley is bound to have one effect and that is in the direction of forcing Feng and Chang to get together. If Wu moves north along the Peking-Hankow railway and Marshal Chi moves north along the Tientsin-Pukow line, whether Feng and Chang trust each other or not, they will have to meet the menace. Up to the present Chang has hesitated to move troops south in the direction of Nanking because he fears the Christian General may cut him off at Tientsin and perhaps drive him back into Manchuria. On the other hand if Feng moves troops south to attack Wu Pei-fu along the Peking-Hankow line, he might weaken his position at the Capital and this would give Chang his opportunity to make a sudden drive on the Capital and eliminate Feng. This was just about where the situation stood prior to Marshal Wu's declaration and if it is Wu's intention to back up his declaration by the actual mobilisation of troops, then Feng and Chang will be forced to patch up something in the form of a government at Peking in order to meet the threatened military movement in the Yangtsze Valley.

The ridiculousness of the present situation in China which the militarists North and South have created would be highly humorous were it not so serious from the standpoint of the future of the Republic. It has had however one constructive effect in that it has exposed to the Chinese people, as well as the whole world, the utter impossibility of China's present crowd of military-politicians ever being able to unify China and establish a central government in the land. The men who have won great military renown in the world's history in other lands have been men who quit fighting when wars were finished and then devoted their energies to reconstruction and the organisation of governments. In China however the great generals do not stop fighting when they are defeated. They keep it up and there are many thinking people in China as well as outside who are beginning to believe that China's war lords find more personal profit in fighting than in making peace.

The Cult Of The Pistol

THE shooting of Sergeant Boddy, of the Municipal Police, on October 30, brought forcibly to the attention of the Shanghai public the obvious fact that the presence at our doors of large numbers of defeated troops and their followers was bound to be followed by a serious wave of crime. The case of Sergeant Boddy is recalled by perusal of the significant remarks contained in the Municipal Police Report for October. A foreign sergeant, a Chinese constable and three civilians were shot by armed robbers and two civilians were stabbed in connection with no fewer than thirty-five cases of armed robbery which occurred during the month—a veritable month of crime. That is to say, there was an average of one case of armed robbery per day. The police record shows a heavy increase in this class of crime, an aftermath of the recent disturbances which was fully anticipated and with which the police are making every effort to deal. In what other region of the world except in China would it be possible to witness the singular spectacle of automatic pistols and ammunition being sold openly by soldiers in large quantities such as was seen in Chapei following the retirement of the Chekiang forces at Shanghai? Numbers of ex-soldiers since that time have become brigands and many reports of robbery, incendiarism, rape and murder have been brought in from the surrounding country. From the point of view of the maintenance of peace and order in the Settlement, local conditions are worse now than at any time since the Revolution thirteen years ago. The affair referred to above in which Sergeant Boddy was shot illustrates the callous daring of these gangs, even in broad daylight.

As showing what the police have to contend with, it would be well to recapitulate the circumstances in which Sergeant Boddy was almost fatally shot. At 9:30 a.m. on the day in question, three robbers armed with pistols entered a shop in Avenue Edward VII, a crowded thoroughfare, and stole a sum of money. Inside the premises they fired several shots to intimidate the employes. Attracted to the scene by the noise, a Chinese constable on post duty near by was fired on twice and severely wounded in the leg. An assistant attempting to leave the shop was shot through the shoulder. The robbers then left and two of them ran along Shantung Road, where they met Sergeant Boddy on whom they at once opened fire. Although unarmed at the time, Sergeant Boddy unhesitatingly attempted to arrest one of the fugitives, by whom he was shot through the stomach and liver. Both robbers then fled northward and Sergeant Boddy, in spite of his wound, followed at once in pursuit. A very plucky attempt was made by a Japanese, whose identity unfortunately has not been discovered, to stop the men in Canton Road, but it was Sergeant Boddy who eventually overtook and disarmed one of them—some three hundred yards from where he had been shot. Subsequently, he was taken to hospital in a critically dangerous condition where he was operated on and his life undoubtedly saved by the skilled attention he received at the hands of the Police surgeons.

The confident hope expressed by the Acting Commissioner of Police that the high degree of courage shown by this young Sergeant, who has been less than two years in the Force, will command the admiration it so well deserves is shared by every single member of the foreign communities in Shanghai as well as the law-abiding section of the Chinese community. It may also be safely taken for granted that tangible recognition of such conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty at considerable personal peril will be forthcoming at no distant date. But while we may be confident that the suitable reward will not be denied Sergeant Boddy and while we may also be sure that other members of the Force will continue to uphold the best traditions of that splendid body, we would be failing in our duty if we refrained from impressing upon this community the imperative need of certain vital and self-evident precautions. If the case of Sergeant Boddy proves anything, it shows in the most conclusive manner that the police or a section of it in more dangerous areas, must be well armed at all times, in the daytime as well as at night. Although we have reason to believe that steps have since been taken in this direction, the need still exists of strengthening the ranks of the plain-clothes men. The lawless character armed with a pistol is today the greatest menace to the Police as well as to the innocent passer-by, who always runs the risk of being wounded in the event of a sudden encounter between armed robbers and the police. That risk has been enhanced rather than diminished since the events of the past few weeks. It would perhaps also be a good thing to enact a by-law empowering shop assistants to be in possession of firearms after due instruction in their use and proof of proficiency. Armed robbers would be less bold if they knew that their intended victims would be in a position to give shot for shot. In that way the big advantage enjoyed by the daring criminal elements in Shanghai would undoubtedly be reduced to an appreciable extent. At all events, the whole problem of armed robbers demands immediate attention and we would commend to the attention of the Acting Police Commissioner the advisability of conferring with the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and other local organisations relative to the most effective means of combating the potential menace that has been created by the appalling conditions in neighboring territory.

Other Views Than Ours On The War In China

CHANG'S POSSIBLE ALLIES

(The Free Press, Detroit, Mich.)

Soviet Russia and Japan jointly backing Chang Tso-lin's military expedition against Peking—such is the latest prospect seen in Far Eastern development.

Even before the Manchurian war lord declared war on the Peking government, his fighting machine was widely acknowledged to be good match for that controlled by China's central authorities. Japanese volunteers, including army reserve officers, and thousands of Russian ex-officers and soldiers were reported in his pay. His supply of rifles, munitions and fighting aeroplanes rendered him a formidable invader.

Soviet Russia being, in a diplomatic sense, something of a free-booter in China and Manchuria, as far as the other powers were concerned, her official designs are all the harder to determine. As for Japan, its government has thus far co-operated loyally with the governments of the United States, Great Britain and France in maintaining neutrality toward the factions contending for supremacy in China, with protection of the lives and property of their respective nationals as the chief immediate objective.

It is conceivable that the Moscow government would require very little "pressure" to enter into an open combination with Chang. What is remarkable is the amount of organised effort now manifest in Japan to force the Tokio government's hands in favor of the Mukden tuchun. One of the pleas for intervention urged upon the cabinet is the alleged clandestine support being given to Peking by the other neutral powers.

Time will show whether Japan can be thus plunged into the Chang adventure by the side of Moscow. It goes without saying that the rest of the world could not regard the combine unconcerned, if only because of the inevitable squabble that would ensue between Tokio and Moscow as to the division of the spoils.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

When still his cheeks were smooth and red,
"I'm bound I'll not be penniless
When age assails my strength," he said.

If pleasure has to be the price
It shall be paid without regret,
And I'll accept no fools' advice
No lure shall cause me to forget."

He turned his back on all the joys
That lay along forbidden ways;
He heard the sneers of other boys,
Who wasted many precious days;
He set himself with patient care
To be prepared to take command;
While others played where scenes were fair
He sought his chance, and worked and planned

Though oft misjudged, his heart was proud,
He was undaunted and unswerved;
Determined to outstrip the crowd,
He missed promotions well deserved;
He saw unworthy men succeed,
And knew their lack of worthiness;
He learned to wonder if, indeed,
The ruling gods were merciless.

Through thick and thin he struggled on
One purpose firmly kept in mind,
And when his youthful years were gone
The need of toil lay far behind,
But he continued to have health,
He thought himself a gay old spark,
And those on whom he blew his wealth
Considered him an easy mark.

Do Not Shut Your Eyes To A Wrong Because Of Fear Of Giving Offense

To have knowledge of a wrong and do nothing to stop it is as criminal as committing the wrong personally.

If you know that a force is active among the "very best people in town" and it is teaching your child to be a "crook," are you going to keep still and let it go on?

Do you think first about whom you would offend by your opposition?

Or have you sense enough to realise that association in the most exclusive circles cannot make your child honest if his heart is black

Any person, club or society which teaches that because you have been "stung" you should go out and do likewise to another so as to get back what you lost by allowing yourself to be roped in, is as criminal in intent and purpose as the highwayman who makes his living by being a thug.

If the fear of being unpopular deters you from taking a stand squarely against such methods, you are a poor stick of a man, woman, girl or boy.

If you have young folks under your care and you do not take a stand and show your disapproval of such unprincipled conduct because you fear the displeasure of your young charges, you do not deserve the confidence of the parents.

Seceding From The Milky Way

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

The latest discoveries in celestial space are not the less sensational because they are scientific. Perhaps the French would call them "passionantes," for in their presence curiosity and wonder are whipped into a very passion. Dr. Harlow Shapley, Director of the Harvard Observatory, announces that at last the distance of the smaller of the two Magellanic Clouds, in the Southern Hemisphere if the heavens, has been determined. It somewhat exceeds a hundred thousand light years, or, say, six hundred quadrillion miles! This is more than six thousand million times the distance of the sun from the earth.

But more wonderful, if possible, than this stupendous stretch of intervening space is the enormous size attributed to the giant suns that compose the great "cloud," which, to the eye of man, looks like a patch of wispy light on the background of the sky. More than half a million of these stars, says Dr. Shapley, are each at least a hundred times as luminous as our sun! And over that half-million of stellar giants preside several hundred supergiants, kings of immensity, every individual of which shines at least ten thousand times brighter than the sun.

Because of the spectroscopic composition of the light of these monsters, which indicates that, relatively, their radiative intensity is low, it is calculated that their dimensions must be still more enormous in comparison with the sun, the greatest having diameters of not less than a thousand million miles, so that one of them, if put in the place of the sun, would fill the whole space of the solar system out nearly to the orbit of Jupiter!

The mind shrinks from the effort required to grasp such mighty figures. But then consider this other fact—the diameter of the Small Magellanic Cloud (for there is a Large Magellanic Cloud also) is no less than 6,500 light-years, or say 39,000 million-million miles. And all that space is crowded with giant stars, intermingled with millions of smaller ones, crowds of which may not exceed our sun in size—poor little Apollos, unseen and unnoticed in that amazing convocation of the greater gods of space!

As I have just said, there is another Magellanic Cloud, larger than the one with which we have been dealing. It is not far away in the same quarter of the southern heavens—not visible from our northern latitudes—and, like the smaller cloud, it resembles a detached part of the Milky Way.

These two luminous clouds, which get their name from the first circumnavigator, Magellan, have long been among the most famous, as well as the most enigmatical objects in the Southern sky, sharing the celebrity of the constellation Southern Cross, which, like them, immediately drew the eyes of the early explorers of the South Seas. Apparently the two clouds are similar in structure, and Dr. Shapley thinks that once they were in the Milky Way, when they may have resembled some of the cloud-like clusters that give so much splendor to the galactic band in the constellations Sagittarius and Scutum Sobieskii.

And here comes a thrilling touch connecting the history of those wonderful objects with that of our little earth, for the speed with which the small Magellanic Cloud is receding from the Milky Way is not less than a hundred miles per second, carrying it over seventeen thousand million miles in a year, so that, as Dr. Shapley remarks, it must have been in the Milky Way at a time less remote than the Paleozoic era of geologists. If there had been astronomers on earth in those early ages, instead of only beasts, we might have had a complete history of the secession of the Magellanic Clouds, but, unfortunately, there were no comprehending brains behind the eyes that stolidly saw-without-seeing the beginning of that immense exile.

Quaint and Charming Costumes Are Chosen for Child Attendants at Smart Weddings

Our grandmothers believed that children should be seen but not heard; while today, at least as far as adult social life is concerned, the idea seems to be that children should neither be seen nor heard. And this is, of course, highly beneficial to the children who in homes where money abounds usually lead an almost completely separate existence. Especially strong is the feeling nowadays that children should not take part in adult social activities, and the one striking exception to this rule seems to be weddings.

A wedding does not seem to be complete any more without a few children. Nephews and nieces are cherished for this purpose, and sometimes very pretty little girls and boys are asked to take part in many wedding processions until they become quite familiar with the quaint words of the ceremony.

Dressing the little page or diminutive bridesmaid is a delightful task, and the children themselves regard the occasion as an adventure similar to that of Hallowe'en. The sketch shows the costumes chosen for a little boy and girl who took part recently in a smart wedding. From head to feet the little girl was dressed in silver—with tiny silver slippers and a simple little silver turban. The little boy acting as her cavalier was dressed in a suit of blue faille with white lace.

There is always chance at charming originality in selecting these little bridal costumes, though the best results are usually obtained when one goes back to old portraits of children for inspiration. The Empire period offers most charming examples—little girls in filmy light frocks, long-skirted, high-waisted, with tiny puff sleeves, and little boys in long trousers, white stockings and frilled shirts.

Silver cloth turban, frock and slippers for little flower girl. Blue silk faille suit with ruffles of white lace for little page.

FASHION NOVELTIES

Crinkled velvet in leopard skin effect is made into sets consisting of collar, cuffs and envelope purse. These cuffs and collars might be attached to a street frock of some dark material.

THE WAY WITH BLOTTING PAPER

Blotting paper doesn't seem like a kitchen reequisite, but there are housewives who would never be without it. It is far better than the usual "brown paper" to use in draining French fried potatoes, croquettes, etc., when taken from the hot fat. The fried things should be drained thoroughly first and then laid on the blotting paper, which absorbs the superfluous grease to perfection. A sheet of white blotting paper costing ten cents may be cut up into pieces just the size to set in a dripping pan and these will last for a long time with careful using.

Blotting paper should be on hand to use in removing spots. A grease spot on silk or other fabric may be removed by this means. A piece of the blotting paper is put above the spot and one beneath it and then it is pressed with a good warm iron and the blotting paper gradually draws out all of the grease. In case ink or other liquid is overturned on cloth or other fabric a little quick action with a piece of fresh blotting paper will do much to take away the stain before it has really got into the material.

TWO WAYS WITH ORANGES

In Salad

One slice pineapple for each portion, one-half cup celery, one-half cup of nuts (chopped), two oranges, mayonnaise, lettuce. Arrange slices of pineapple on nests of lettuce leaves. Cut celery in slender strips, one and one-half inches long, and mix with nut meats. Pile in center of pineapple and garnish with four sections of orange, free from membrane, laid symmetrically on pineapple.

In Biscuits

Two cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one-half to three-quarters cup milk, one orange, five teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons shortening, sixteen small lumps sugar. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; cut in shortening with a knife and add enough milk to make a soft dough. Roll three-fourths inch thick, cut out with small round cutter and place close together in greased pan. Grate the yellow rind from the orange over the biscuits. Squeeze the juice, dip a lump of sugar into the juice and press into center of each biscuit. Bake in hot oven.

This photograph was taken by Ludwig Marx, one of the German members of the crew of the ZR-3, just as the leviathan of the air, in mid-ocean, passed over the American steamer Robert Dollar, of the Dollar line. The sailors waved a greeting to the airship as it flew by.

British Steamship Lines Withdrawing From Russia

The White Star, Cunard and Cunard and other big steamship lines which have been operating in Russia for three years are rapidly liquidating their affairs and will soon withdraw entirely from the country. The Canadian Pacific, which has done considerable business transporting Mennonites from Southern Russia to Canada, will remain on until the end of the year.

All of these companies were heavily hit by the new American immigration quotas. They then turned their attention to South American traffic, but this did not develop sufficiently to warrant the lines remaining in Russia.

Anking Is Disturbed Over Swift Changes

(China Press Correspondence)

Anking, Nov. 16.—Anking is at present in a state of extreme nervousness. The report published in The China Press a few days ago that Tuli Ma Lien-chia had been ousted, is premature. He arrived in Anking some days ago, coming in overland from the direction of Pengpu, and escorted by his body guard and about two thousand of his more reliable troops. The day after his arrival it was rumored, supposedly on good authority, that he was leaving at once, and that General Wang P'u from Wuhu would arrive shortly to take over the military governorship. The merchants of the city held a meeting on November 13th, and sent a request to Tuli Ma that he remove the excess soldiers from the immediate neighborhood of the city, and that the patrol of the streets and guarding of the city gates be left to the local police. This request has not been acceded to as yet, the soldiery having taken over most of the usual police functions, and adopting a truculent manner which does not allay the fears of the general population.

On Nov. 14th Tuli Ma announced his intention of remaining and holding Anking against all comers. As he had failed to provide any pay for his soldiers for some four months, this announcement added decidedly to the tension, the people fearing that the guards would get out of hand and commence looting the city. The Merchants' Guild held another meeting that day, and raised a sum sufficient to give Ma's soldiers two months' pay each. Tuli Ma is said to have announced at that time that if the Merchants' Guild would furnish a sum, varying according to reports, from $200,000 to $500,000 he would guarantee his troops' intentions as to remaining under control.

WILLING TO LEAVE

Yesterday, Nov. 15th, a city official told your correspondent that Tuli Ma had telegraphed General Wang P'u at Wuhu to come on at once and take over the command; that he was willing to leave, and would hand over the seals of office at once. The city was full of wild rumors all day as a result of this, all the shops closed, and the streets were almost deserted after dark. Everybody was expecting that during the next few hours the troops, knowing that Tuli Ma was about to leave, would decide that their only chance of getting their back pay would be to come and take it forcibly from the shops.

Another disturbing report was a telegram from the magistrate at Shucheng some 90 to 100 miles north of Anking, saying that a column of troops sent by General Ni from Pengpu had passed through Shucheng with Anking as their objective, to put out Tuli Ma. General Ma at once ordered a couple of regiments to start north to intercept the invaders, but these troops merely marched out of the city to a camp about five miles away, and remained there during the night, where they are still supposed to be.

STILL IN STATUS QUO

Nothing happened during last night, but this morning we learn that General Wang has not arrived, General Ma has not left, and everything is in the status quo. General Wang is supposed to be en route, and if he arrives, no outbreak is expected, otherwise looting is looked for tonight.

Among the rumors which have been floating about the city is a persistent one to the effect that Tuli Ma has taken refuge in the American Church Mission compound, having paid twenty thousand dollars for the privilege. Your correspondent is in a position to prove the falseness of the rumor. The members of the mission have however, been besieged for the past three or four days with requests from all classes of people for refuge for themselves and their belongings. Mission and Consular rules however do not permit goods to be received, and only in case of actual outbreak of looting can refugees be received, and these are to be limited to the women and children.

A number of the government schools have closed, and the pupils have been sent to their homes. The mission schools however, are still functioning.
